

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF NAVAL RECORDS

2 NAVY ANNEX

WASHINGTON DC 20370-5100

TJR

Docket No: 2352-00

28 September 2000

[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

This is in reference to your application for correction of your naval record pursuant to the provisions of Title 10, United States Code, Section 1552.

A three-member panel of the Board for Correction of Naval Records, sitting in executive session, considered your application on 13 September 2000. Your allegations of error and injustice were reviewed in accordance with administrative regulations and procedures applicable to the proceedings of this Board. Documentary material considered by the Board consisted of your application, together with all material submitted in support thereof, your naval record, and applicable statutes, regulations, and policies.

After careful and conscientious consideration of the entire record, the Board found the evidence submitted was insufficient to establish the existence of probable material error or injustice.

The Board found you reenlisted in the Navy on 23 February 1973 after two years of prior honorable service. Your record reflects that on 21 June 1973 you received nonjudicial punishment (NJP) for a 16 day period of unauthorized absence (UA) and were awarded a $342 forfeiture of pay, reduction to paygrade E-2, and restriction for 21 days. Subsequently, you were notified that an administrative separation action had been initiated by reason of convenience of the government due to being a burden to the command as evidenced by your substandard conduct and marginal performance.

On 5 July 1973, after breaking restriction and while in a UA status, you were arrested by civil authorities for theft of an automobile. The record, however, does not reflect that any action was taken at that time by the civil authorities. Subsequently, the discharge authority directed your commanding officer to issue you a general discharge under honorable conditions by reason of convenience of the government. On 16 July 1973 you were so discharged.

Character of service is based, in part, on conduct and overall trait averages which are computed from marks assigned during periodic evaluations. Your conduct average was 2.0. An average of 3.0 in conduct was required at the time of your separation for a fully honorable characterization of service.

The Board, in its review of your entire record and application, carefully weighed all potentially mitigating factors, such as your prior honorable service and your contention that while you were serving on active duty you suffered with both a post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and a bipolar disorder. However, the Board concluded these factors and contentions were not sufficient to warrant recharacterization of your discharge given your misconduct in both the military and civilian communities, and since your conduct average was also insufficiently high to warrant a fully honorable characterization of service. Given all the circumstances of your case, the Board concluded your discharge and narrative reason for separation were proper as issued and no change is warranted. Accordingly, your application has been denied.

The names and votes of the members of the panel will be furnished upon request.

It is regretted that the circumstances of your case are such that favorable action cannot be taken. You are entitled to have the Board reconsider its decision upon submission of new and material evidence or other matter not previously considered by the Board. In this regard, it is important to keep in mind that a presumption of regularity attaches to all official records. Consequently, when applying for a correction of an official naval record, the burden is on the applicant to demonstrate the existence of probable material error or injustice.

Sincerely,

W. DEAN PFEIFFER
Executive Director
